

Criterion F: Feedback from client

Questions to Client:

Does this website satisfy the goals of your problem?

Yes, the website displays all the things that it needs to, and presents information about Shinnyo En and our Lineage like I wanted to do. Plus it was free.

Are you satisfied with the structure of the website? Are different elements emphasized properly?

Yes, I like the website and the categories that are most important are emphasized properly

Do you like the aesthetic of the website? In what ways?

The website looks good. It is not as cluttered looking as the old website. However the color needs some work. I really like the way you redesigned the reader.

How was the scheduling and consultation?

Yes, I think you checked in with me enough. The website turned out nice and professional looking. The website's functional component was completed on time, although there are a few more things that I'd like to do with the graphics.

Do any areas of the site look incomplete or not to your liking?

- The table on the testimonials page is not presented very well
- the text sometimes seems to move when the pages start (this is due to me not putting dimensions on the images)
- Google search doesn't work (it does work, however Google has not indexed the site yet)

Does this site fulfill your needs in terms of the stated goal in Criterion B?

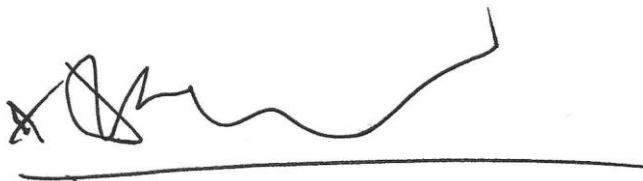

Yes this site is good at displaying all the stuff that I need it to like the testimonials and Buddhist stories.

Criterion B requirements

- a) The website must be easily navigable (i.e. working breadcrumbs, no 'dead end' pages, etc)

- a. There are no dead end pages, all breadcrumbs work. The client tells me that she likes the navigation bar and sections are “emphasized properly”
- b) Must display all of the required content (all of the testimonials pages and all of the Buddhist story pages)
  - a. All of the main content from the old site has been imported and redone. The client confirms that all the testimonials she had are there.
- c) Can be displayed on multiple browsers (chrome, Firefox, opera, safari, IE9+).
  - a. Site’s display is adequate on all named browsers. The client confirms that the displays on all named browsers are fine.
- d) Is not susceptible to Cross Site Scripting (XSS) or SQL injection attacks.
  - a. A bit more could be done to avoid SQL injection attacks; however, through input sanitization most obvious vectors of attacks are defended against.
- e) Has a consistent aesthetic.
  - a. The client approves of the aesthetic, though believes that the color and some specific elements (mentioned in the interview) could be improved upon.
